4-1-2008

Spirit of the Place: A Sampling of Photographs and Art

Follow this and additional works at: http://epublications.marquette.edu/conversations

Recommended Citation
Available at: http://epublications.marquette.edu/conversations/vol33/iss1/13
When Loyola College of Baltimore moved to its present campus, the Tudor style mansion now known as the Francis X. Knott, S.J., Humanities Center was already there. For years it served as the Jesuit community residence. Today it houses the president's office, several academic departments, admissions, alumni and other offices. Its recently renovated terrace has made it a popular gathering place where mind, body, and spirit easily blend.

This photo, taken after an ice storm in early 2007, is of the statue of St. Francis Xavier looking down the steps in front of Knoll Hall on the Xavier University campus.